Pocahontas Quarterly

Volume 4&5

Winter/Spring 1998

No. 4 &1

Published in the County of Gloucester, Virginia, home of Pocahontas and location of Werowocomoco where Pocahontas saved the life of Capt. John Smith

POCAHONTAS QUARTERLY

P. O. Box 675 Gloucester, Virginia 23061 804/693-2297

The Pocahontas Quarterly is published in the County of Gloucester, Virginia. Gloucester County's 225-square-miles of land area are bounded by the Piankatank River on the north. Mobjack Bay on the east and the York River on the south. Established in 1651, the county is rich in history. When English settlers arrived at Jamestown in 1607, Chief Powhatan, ruler over 32 tribes, had established his main village, Werawocomoco, in Gloucester. In was here, on the north side of the York River, 25 miles below West Point, Virginia, that Captain John Smith's life was saved by Powhatan's daughter, Pocahontas. Smith's men built Chief Powhatan a cabin and the remains -a chimney- still stands today.

Dear Friends.

Here is the long-awaited Pocahontas Quarterly. Hope you like the FREE post card.

They are very popular here in Gloucester.

Thank you for all your kind letters and cards during my recovery. As I am doing this all by myself your support keeps me plucking along -can you believe we are going into our fifth year?

Much has happened since the last issue- my husband and I welcomed our third child, Alexandra Murray, on February 4 during one of the worst storms on the east coast. She is giving us much pleasure every day. She is such a favorite with her two older sisters, Amy, 12 and Katherine, 6, that sometimes it is very difficult for dear ole' mom to get even a peek.

Also, some sad news. . . we have learned of the death of a very close friend, Ken Bradby. I have printed a letter from him following the Pocahontas Celebration here in Gloucester. (See page 3) I have also included his obituary from the Virginia Gazette. (See page 7) He came to Gloucester as a radio DJ and soon joined my father's band. He was Native American of the Pamunkey tribe. A true friend. We will miss him.

There is a lot to read in this issue. As you can see the mail keeps me busy. If you can help any of these folks please respond to their inquiries. I am trying to assist as many as possible on my own.

We have an article written by Nola Sweet this time. She is the wife of our contributor David Sweet. I delayed the second part of his article because of the importance of this story. They are raising money and collecting articles for another trip to the Pine Ridge, S.D. to the reservation.

Please enjoy and remember, send in those lineage charts.

Dear Sir or Madam,

I live in England, but my dad was an American, from Kentucky. My dad died in 1983, but he always said we were related to Pocahontas. I know we have American Indian blood on both sides of his family. Is there any way we could find out for sure which tribes they belonged. I know certain records were destroyed some years ago. We are coming to the States this year in October to see family in Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Yours Sincerely, Carol Lynn Milner 41 Beaconsfield Prescot, L345PD Merseyside, England

Keith Egloff, Assistant Curator, left, and Lysbeth Acuff, Curator of the Virginia Department of Historic Resources, are shown with "Smith's Rock" in the Pocahontas Museum which will open in the near future. The rock was brought to the museum from its location at Wewawocomoco (Wicomico) and has been known for generations and generations as the rock that Captain John Smith's head was placed on when Pocahontas saved his life.

Jamestown Invades England

by Bly Straube, Curator of Jamestown

Thanks to a generous grant from the National Geographic Society, all seven staff members of the Jamestown Rediscovery team (Bill Kelso, Elliott Jordan, Mike Lavin, Nick Luccketti, Jamie May, Eric Deetz, and I) were able to travel to England on a research and study trip in the beginning of November....
...On Tuesday, conferees were invited to an all-day bus trip to Kent. There we visited St. George's Church, which stands upon an earlier church in which Pocahontas was buried. Of course, the Jamestown group had to have a group portrait at the church with the statue of Pocahontas, sister to the one on the APVA's Jamestown Island.

1600s woman dug up at Jamestown

The Virginia Gazette, Williamsburg 3/28/98

By Bill Tolbert

JAMES CITY—Whenever you think of the early settlers at Jamestown, John Smith and John Rolfe come to mind. Now comes Lucy Forrest.

Researchers at the Smithsonian Institution are analyzing a second skeleton found in the Jamestown Rediscovery dig at the site of the original fort. The find is extraordinary because it may be one of only two white women here in 1608.

Archaeologists found the second skeleton last fall. They quetly had it examined at Williamsburg Community Hospital and sent it to the Smithsonian a few weeks ago. The find is important because it may give researchers fresh information about women in Virginia during the 1600s. "As far as I can tell, the only woman's image we have from 17th century Virginia until Gov. Berkeley's wife is Pocahontas," said Bill Kelso, director of the Jamestown dig. "So that's an opportunity. And we can do other studies, possibly to research diseases and things like that."

Local archaeologists have held off publicizing the second find to avoid the media crush that surrounded the first skeleton, discovered in spring 1996 and played up all over the country. It belonged to a man who had been shot in the leg with a musket ball, and it's now on exhibit.

There's no indication of how the woman died, according to Kelso. "The remains really were not in a good state of preservation. Our preliminary analysis is that this was a 35-year-old Caucasian woman who wasn't in a great state of health."

who wasn't in a great state of health."
Records of the day attest that there were only two women colonists at Jamestown Island in 1608. "The chances of it being one or the other probably are pretty high," Kelso said.

He speculates the remains are of Forrest. She's listed on records with a Coming to Jamestown with Forrest was her maid, Anne Burras. She later married John Laydon, one of the first settlers, and was still alive for the 1625 census. The Laydon's daughter, Virginia, was the first child born at Jamestown. Kelso added.

The second skeleton was buried about three feet from the first one, but at a different angle. That indicates the two burials aren't necessarily connected.

The find is another career highlight for Kelso.

"Absolutely, especially at Jamestown," he explained. "It's generally looked on as such an anonymous settlement. There's such a foggy sort of image of this entire settlement. It's rare that you could even trace where any of these people came from. This does personalize it."

Tribes Present Annual Tribute

351-Year-Old Treaty Honored

By GAYNELL TERRELL
Associated Press Writer

RICHMOND — The chiefs of the Mattaponi and Pamunkey Indian tribes honored a 351-year treaty Wednesday by presenting a clearly delighted Gov. George Allen with a symbolic gift of beaver pelts and wild game.

The tribute dates back to a pact signed in 1646, and amended in 1677, between American Indian tribes and the English government in Colonial Virginia. It calls for the Indians to make the annual offering on the day before Thanksgiving in lieu of paying taxes on tribal land.

The traditional presentation — 20 beaver pelts from the Mattaponi, a three-point buck from the Pamunkey — was accompanied by the pageantry of people in traditional tribal dress, gifts of Indian crafts and jewelry and a drum and song demonstration.

But Pamunkey Chief William P. "Swift Water" Miles said the tribute is more than a show.

"Our treaty ... predates the Constitution. Maybe the most important thing about it is it maintains our sovereignty," said Miles, a descendant of the powerful Powhatan Confederacy which ruled the Virginia coastal plains Indians at the time of the Jamestown Settlement. The most famous member of that group was Pocahontas.

The residents of Pamunkey and Mattaponi reservations in southeast Virginia pay no property taxes on their land or homes. They may also hunt and fish anywhere in the state without a license.

Wednesday's presentation in front of the Governor's Mansion was attended by tribal members, a gaggle of school children and curious passersby touring the State Capitol, located on the same grounds.

Tribal dispute in court

Rappahannock Indians divided

By KIM DOUGLASS The Free Lance-Star

A feud that has ripped through the Rappahannock Indian family tree is now playing out in court.

Rappahannock Indians have lived around the rural crossroads where Caroline, Essex, and King and Queen counties meet for 250 years. The Rappahannock Tribe includes families whose ancestors lived in the coastal lowlands along the Chesapeake Bay when the first permanent English colony was established at Jamestown in 1607.

In recent years, some of these families have been fighting among themselves over everything from complicated issues of Indian blood lines to jealousies. The battling led to the formation of a second tribe of Rappahannocks last summer—the Rappahannock Indian Tribe.

Now, the Rappahannock Tribe is suing the Rappahannock Indian Tribe over the use of the name Rappahannock.

Confused?

A King and Queen County judge will sort it all out.

In court papers filed in that county, the older tribe argues that the newer tribe shouldn't use the name Rappahannock because having two Rappahannock tribes is confusing. Also, the older tribe argues that it will lose money if there's another tribe of Rappahannocks, in part because the two tribes might compete for grant money.

The tribe wants to be reimbursed for any money it might have lost since the new tribe was formed. The tribe's attorney, Peter Glubiak of Aylett, said he is trying to determine how much that would be.

But the new tribe argues in court papers that the Rappahannock name is generic and is the only word that can be used to identify a person of Rappahannock descent. Also, the new tribe argues that it has not tried to sell any goods or services that might be construed as coming from the other tribe.

Judge Thomas Hoover is expected to rule on these issues at a hearing March 25

Meanwhile, the newer tribe of Rappahannocks is slowly growing, with about 170 members. The tribe had considered seeking official recognition from the General Assembly during this year's session, but decided against it. That's in part because of the pending litigation and because, "We want to take things slowly, make sure we have all our documentation in order," said the tribe's chief, Nokomis Lemons.

Lemons wouldn't discuss the suit except to say that it is upsetting to her friends and relatives.

Ken Bradby dies, ran advertising for the Gazette

The Virginia Gazette, Williamsburg 2/11/98

By W.C. O'Donovan

A funeral will be held Friday for Kenneth S. Bradby, former advertising manager of The Virginia Gazette and the voice of W&M Football at Cary Stadium.

He died Tuesday evening at the VA Medical Center in Hampton following complications from brain surgery. He was 65.

As a teenager in the early 1950s, he was forbidden by state law from going to high school in Virginia because he was an Indian. His family sent him from the Pamunkey reservation west of West Point to Haskell Institute in Kansas.

After graduation, he joined the Army and wound up in the Signal Corps in Japan, where he became proficient in radio operations. Upon returning to the states, he went to work as an engineer and radio personality for WLEE in Richmond and WBCI in Williamsburg.

It was in radio that he developed the distinctive baritone voice that William & Mary fans found so familiar while watching football on brisk autumn afternoons. To this day, his is the voice of the night answering machine at the Gazette.

Editor and publisher John O.W. Gravely III hired Mr. Bradby in the early 1960s to help him sell ads.

The paper was struggling with a small circulation. One time a new sales rep complained to Mr. Gravely that it was difficult to sell retailers an ad that only 2,000 people would see.

Mr. Bradby liked to tell the story. "2,000 people?" Gravely responded. "Tell them that's 4,000 eyes!"

Mr. Bradby was from the old school of selling that valued listening skills above pitching skills. One result was that he became a close friend to many a colleague who was suffering through a divorce or death in the family.

He was cool under pressure. One time a frustrated production manager burst into his office because an edition was on the press and had one blank hole in the Merchants Square panel of ads. Mr. Bradby smoothly picked up the phone and called a reluctant client. "They're holding the presses for you, if you want to change your mind." It worked.

Mr. Bradby was also an accomplished guitarist who played in a small band and did solo gigs as well. His idol was jazz guitarist Charlie Byrd.

During the 1960s he and his wife divorced, and he wound up raising three children. A colleague at the Gazette, Maria Anderson, recalled that he was diligent at getting to every school function and game, better than most parents who had spouses.

For 18 years, Mr. Bradby was responsible for ad sales in The Virginia Gazette and Publick Observer, forerunner of Williamsburg Magazine. He retired in 1990.

Over the years, Mr. Bradby bought a series of rental properties around town. He was always proud of co-owning property with Gil Granger, on nothing more than a handshake. He also built houses on speculation, enjoying the daily process of construction more than the builders.

Eventually he built a duplex for tourist rentals in Rodanthe, on Hatteras Island. An avid ocean fisherman, he once parked a new rod and reel in the plastic tube on the beach so he could open a beer. When he turned around, a fish had snatched the rod into the sea.

Later, a nor'easter swept the rental house away as well.

He never complained, remaining serenely philosophical about life's foibles.

He had a quick wit and was self-effacing, both of which charmed everyone who knew him.

Last Thanksgiving, his family realized his memory was fading, so he went in for tests. A brain tumor was found, and he stoically opted for surgery. Two days beforehand, he was out playing golf.

After the surgery he suffered a stroke, which impaired his ability to recover.

Puzzled by the imponderables of life and luck, Mr. Bradby used to say, "It makes no sense."

He is survived by three children, Ken Bradby Jr. of Williamsburg, Robin Bradby Sumner of Frederick, Md., and Frank Bradby of King William; his sister, Joyce Krigsvold of King William; and three grand-children.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 13, at Pamunkey Baptist Church on the Pamunkey Reservation, off Route 30. Donations may be made to the Pamunkey Indian Museum. B.W. White in King William Courthouse is in charge of the arrangements.

One of the main reasons for the split was the Rappahannock Tribe's policy of excluding Indians "possessing any Negro blood" from membership. That policy has since been removed from the tribe's articles of incorporation.

The way some Indian experts explain it, race has been a painfully sensitive subject among Indians for generations. For some, preserving their identity has become a matter of preserving "blood lines," which could explain the exclusion of a particular race.

But Lemons and other Rappahannocks called the membership rule racist. They also objected to personality conflicts that had developed and ways the tribe's leadership conducted business.

They said last summer that they formed the Rappahannock Indian Tribe so they could practice and preserve their heritage freely and without conflict.

Glubiak said he encouraged the tribe to make the changes to its membership rules. Now, an eligible member need only prove that he or she is one-quarter Rappahannock or an Indian who is married to a Rappahannock. The other tribe of Rappahannocks has similar membership rules.

For the past 12 years, she has been teaching Native American Studies as an adjunct professor at Lord Fairfax Community College.

Adkins said that when she was growing up, many of her older relatives were reluctant to talk to her about their Native American heritage, and didn't want it mentioned in public. "They just didn't want to be identified as an Indian," she said. "There's a lot of bitterness there."

Many of them, she said, moved north to get jobs during the years of segregation. She added that some people's attitudes toward Native Americans still haven't changed, especially in the South

'We haven't really arrived very far yet," she said.

She believes it's only been in the '90s that people have started to respect and appreciate

In an effort to encourage future generations of Americans to appreciate the Native American culture, Adkins is one of the advisers for the Native American Interest Group of the Shawnee Girl Scout Council, a group aimed at cadet and senior Girl Scouts.

She runs the seven-member group along with Lisa-Keys, who started it five years ago after leading a Girl Scouts day camp in Warren County featuring Native American

'I didn't find out we had a Native American heritage until my grandfather was getting older and we got him to spit it out," said Keys, who was about 13 then. "I loved it. It was such a boost, because I was always the Indian when they played cowboys and Indians.

After learning about her heritage, Keys launched into an independent study, reading as many books as she could find, and researching her family line.

Her sister, Marie Kane, an eighth-grader at Warren Middle School who is also a member, was one of 15 Native American girls across the country chosen in December to attend a conference on conflict resolution and peace at Macy Conference Center in New York. Virginia Book Company Specializes in Resurrecting Old Tomes

By LORRAINE REHBOCK
The Winchester Star

BERRYVILLE — Stuart E. Brown Jr.'s love of books has been the driving force behind the Berryville-based Virginia Book Company.

A lawyer by trade, Brown said he is not concerned with his book company making a profit.

"The book thing was just a hobby for me," Brown said.

Brown, 81, graduated from the University of Virginia law school in 1940.

He practiced law in Baltimore briefly before joining the Navy in the early 1940s.

After a six-year stint in the military, he moved to Millwood in 1950 and started his book business in a small building at 114 S. Church St. in Berryville.

Brown said he practiced law from an office on the other side of the building where the Virginia Book Company is still located. He retired from his law practice in 1993.

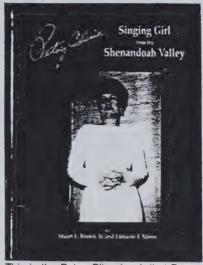

The law office is now occupied by attorney John R. Friant Jr.

Brown started out selling used and rare books about the history of Virginia and genealogies of Virginia families.

"We were a mail-order, secondhand book store, and we published books that we're out of print," he said.

Brown said he discontinued selling secondhand books about five years ago because people were no longer buying them.

His company still publishes reprints of rare and old books. He also publishes books he has written himself or in collaboration with other authors about Virginia history and Virginia family genealogies.

This is the Patsy Cline book that Brown co-authored with Lorraine Myers in 1996.

One of his reprints includes a book titled "The History of Clarke County, Virginia" written by Thomas D. Gold in 1914.

Some books he has written include: three volumes of "Virginia Genealogies," ."Annals of Clarke County Virginia," and "Burwell: Kith and Kin of the Immigrant Lewis Burwell (1621-1653) And Burwell Virginia Plantation Mansions."

One of his most recent collaborations with his longtime assistant, Lorraine Myers, was a biography of Patsy Cline published in 1996.

Brown said he encouraged Myers to collaborate with him on the book "Patsy Cline, Singing Girl From the Shenandoah Valley," since she knew how to contact many of Patsy Cline's relatives.

Myers, a Clarke County native, said she used to attend many concerts featuring Cline in the red brick building at 20 S. Church St. before Cline became famous.

"I used to attend her dances," she said.
"She performed right in the brick building where Dollar General is."

Myers, who has worked as Brown's assistant for 39 years, said the Cline biography is one of the company's bestselling books.

She said more than 3,000 copies of the book have been sold world-

"We've had a few orders from Canada and a few orders from Europe," Myers said.

Brown said he sent letters to many country singers advertising the book.

"The only singer that answered was Reba McIntire, my favorite singer," he said.

Although McIntire was the only one who personally responded, Brown said he also received a letter from Le Ann Rimes's management requesting a copy of the book Locally, the book is available at the Berryville News Stand; The Winchester Book Gallery; and All Seasons book shop and The Book Shelf in Winchester.

Brown also collaborated with Myers and Eileen M. Chappel on the book, "Pocahontas' Descendants," in 1985 with revised volumes in 1992 and 1995.

Brown said the idea for tracing Pocahontas' descendants started with his wife, Ann.

"My wife thought she was a descendant of Pocahontas, but I found out she wasn't," Brown said.

Brown said his book was actually based on an update of another book on Pocahontas' genealogy, "Pocahontas and Her Descendants," published by Wyndham Robertson in 1887.

He said he spent many hours researching and corresponding with people all over the country who claimed to be descendants of Pocahontas.

"They all wanted to get their line in," he said.

Brown also wrote and published a 34-page, paperbound biography of Pocahontas in 1989. He is the sole author of that book.

Brown said his next venture will be a book about Graz, Austria, an idea he got from a friend who was born and raised there.

"She lived in Graz, Austria, from 1938 to 1952," he said, adding that her father was a soldier there during World War II.

He said the city endured over 63 bombings during the war.

"Graz was the most heavily bombed city in Austria," he said.

Brown said he is in the midst of his research for the book and has been corresponding with people in Austria and Germany for information

While Brown primarily publishes his own books, he occasionally publishes books written by close friends and family members.

One of those includes a book of data on Virginia families written by his late mother, Dakota Best Brown, in 1979.

Trading Post owner plans outdoor museum

By Paul Aron

JAMES CITY—The owner of the Four Winds Trading Post on Pocahontas Trail is planning to open an outdoor museum depicting day-to-day life in a traditional Native American village.

Thomas Brown said Friday he hoped to have the village constructed and open to the public by next spring. The museum would be located across the street from Carter's Grove.

The village would be located behind the store on a portion of what is now the Four Winds campground. Brown is planning to build several structures, including a council lodge, birthing lodge, wigwam, and a long house.

Activities there would include cooking, gardening, skinning, pottery demonstrations, and lectures, as well as demonstrations of bows and arrows, knives, and tomahawks.

Brown hasn't set admission prices yet, but he said it would be a few dollars. He said he hoped the museum would break even, but that its major financial benefit would be to attract more visitors to the store.

The village will represent a variety of Eastern woodland traditions. Brown is a member of the Lenape tribe.

County planners have recommended approval of his application for a Special Use Permit, though they've added conditions that would address landscaping, traffic, and safety concerns. The last includes enclosing the weapons demonstration area behind a fence and prohibiting the public from using the bows and arrows, knives, and tomahawks.

Hello.

I received a hand bill of sorts, it offers information on proving relationship to Pocahontas. Do you have a listing of MINCY BOULING marriage to JOHN MOBBS (MABS/MOLES), 18 January 1815, Patrick Co. Va. ? The marriage bonds reads:

Know all men by these present that we John Mobbs Gabe (or Gabl) Bouling and Thomas Harbour are held and firmly bound unto Wilson Cary Nicholas Govenor of this Commonwealth in the sum of $150. This the payment of which we bind ourselves our heirs ____ and ___ firmly by these present sealed with our seal and dated this 18 day January 1815.

The condition of the above obligation is such that whereas a license has issued to intermarry the above bound John Mobbs and Mincy Bouling. Now if therefore there is no lawful cause to obstruct the said marriage then the above obligation to be void else to remain in full force and power and virtue.

signed sealed and delivered in presence of Abr Staples WC

It is then signed by John Mobbs, Gabriel Bouling has made his mark with someone filling in his name, and Tho Harbour, each name has the mark of a seal after it.

We are hoping to prove this as OUR JOHN MOBBS AND MINCY IF SOMEONE HAS RECORDS THEY WILL SHARE TO THAT EFFECT.

I HAVE TALKED TO ICY SNIDER MY DISTANT COUSIN. AND SHE SAID THAT YOU ARE PRINTING HER LINAGE TO POCAHONTAS. I WAS THE ONE WHO GAVE IT TO HER. I HAVE KNOW THIS EVERY SENCE I WAS 20 YEARS OLD.

MY GRANDMOTHER TOLD US WHEN WE WERE VERY SMALL, THAT WE WERE CONNECTED IN SOME WAY THROUGH THE PAYNES.

I HAVE DONE MUCH RESEARCH ON THIS FAMILY LINE. AND ENCLOSE PLEASE FIND THE LINAGE OF MY LINE TO POCAHONTAS. AND I AM SURE YOU WILL SEE THERE IS NO MISTAKES, IN THIS LINE.

FIRST OFF. I HAVE FOUND NO MARRIEAGE FOR JOHN C. PAYNE TO A MISS CLARISSA WILLARD, NOT THAT HE WASN'T, BUT I CAN NOT PROVE IT. BUT THERE IS PROOF HE MARRIED A CLARA WILCOX OF NEW YOUR. AND THEN HE MARRIED DEC. 1827 IN CAMPBELL CO. KY. A MARY (POLLY) ISABELLE LANDERS DAUGHTER OF HENRY LANDERS. BY THE INFORMATION I HAVE IT IS POSSIBLE THAT JOHN C. PAYNE MARRIED MISS WILCOX IN CANADA.

I HAVE ALL OF THEIR CHILDREN AND SOME OF THEIR GRANDCHILDREN. I AM STILL WORKING ON THIS FAMILY. UNCLE THOMAS PAYNE BROTHER OF JOHN C. PAYNE, LIVED WITH MY GRANDFATHER. AND WE HAVE A PICTURE OF HIM, AS WELL AS OF MANY OTHER MEMBERS OF JOHN C. PAYNES GRANDCHILDREN.

PLEASE LET ME KNOW IF YOU CAN USE THIS LINE. I HOPE YOU CAN UNDERSTAND IT. IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS JUST LET ME KNOW. IF YOU WANT PHOTO COPIES OF ANY PICTURES TO GO WITH THIS PLEASE JUST CONTACT ME.

WE ARE HOPING TO HEAR FROM YOU SOON. ENCLOSED IS MY $20.00 TO GET THE POCAHOTAS QUARTERLY.

TO THE BEST OF MY KNOWLEDGE EVERY THING IN THIS REPORT IS TRUE AND CORRECT.

SINCERELY KAREN A. PAYNE

I have been trying to trace my family and have only the following information on my maternal Grandmother, Oma Victoria Boothe (see C3 below). I believe this was typed by my uncle George Boothe and have no idea where he got the info as I have been unable to verify any of it. The handwritten notes are in my Aunt Minnie's hand and were added at a later time.

My daughter found you on the Internet. I would be grateful for any information you are able to share with me.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am currently working on my husbands family tree. I see that his last Ellett is listed as a descendant of Pocahontas. It would be very interesting to find out if he was truly a descendant of hers and help further my research. His aunt has told us that he is, but has yet to produce any evidence. The only information I have been able to find is enclosed.

Dear Sir/ Madam:

In the last year I've started doing "Elam/Elam" genealogy. . . I have traced my family back to Robert Elam who was born about 1629 in England and died before 1694, Henrico County, Va. His daughter Ann Elam was born about 1659, Henrico County, Virginia and died 1697 Henrico County, Va., His daughter married a Gilbert Elam, son of Thomas Elam and Mary Shirecliffof England. Gilbert Elam was born May 1630, Yorkshire, England and died about 1696, Henrico, Va., (earliest I've found). I'm writing you for more information and would like to find out if there's a chance I may be descendant and how to go about proving it. I'm an amateur in genealogy and would appreciate any assistance.

Tobacco was king in early Virginia

'Nicotine bridal currency' was substitute for coins, notes

By Richard Giedroyc COIN WORLD Staff

Virginia has a numismatic history dating from Colonial times, offering collectors one of the few windows opening on the evolution of a society from primitive to traditional forms

Money was necessary to the founders of Jamestown, but despite a 1606 grant from the English king to the Colonists in which they were given independence to strike coins in the charter granted to the Colony, the Colonists opted instead to use tobacco as barter.

Recent archaeological excavations of what is believed to be the site of the original Jamestown fort have yielded an English 1592 Elizabeth I silver half groat cut in half to make change as a quarter groat, two Spanish coins (one rolled as a bead), and two Low Country jetons. The jetons are dated 1580 and 1588. The finds indicate some coins did circulate, but because of a lack of a local Mint and the shortage of coins, foreign coins or substitutes from anywhere were used when available.

John Rolfe, who married the Indian Pocahontas, was the first planter to grow Spanish American varieties of tobacco in Virginia. He shipped four barrels of tobacco to England in 1614, beginning the trade in that commodity.

A company was later formed in England that shipped commodities to Virginia. These needed commodities were traded for tobacco rather than purchased with coins.

Within a few years, mailorder brides were being bought and paid for by Virginia planters for "nicotine bridal

COLONIAL VIRGINIA paper money was devalued during the 1760s due to a local recession driven by lower prices for tobacco currency" - 120 pounds of tobacco each.

The Virginia planters organized the first legislative body in the English Colonies, composed of 22 members or "burghesses." One of first actions of the group was to set regulations regarding raising, shipping and fixing the value of tobacco as the legal currency of the Colony. One pound of the best quality tobacco was made legally equal to three shillings. Second quality tobacco of the same weight was valued at 1.5 shillings.

It was 1619 when tobacco became the official currency of Virginia. Tobacco was widely exported to England and Europe, creating a favorable balance of trade for all tobacco producing Colonies. Even when coins became available, the coins were generally used for external rather than domes-

England began requiring Virginia to ship its tobacco crop to England in 1621, where an import duty could be collected on it by the crown. The Virginia Assembly soon after invited Dutch colonial merchants to bring their "wares and merchandizes" to trade for tobacco as an alternative

Despite the position of tobacco, coins were still important to external trade. As early as 1631, Virginia was considering "crying up money," raising the value of coins. Records are not clear on the success of the first attempt, but by 1645 Virginia had set the Spanish colonial American silver 8-real coin at six shillings in local money of account. Within 10 years this was raised to five shillings due to extensive clipping of these coins. The lowered value of the Spanish coins encouraged Virginians to export the Spanish issues to other Colonies where such coins were valued at a more favorable rate.

Tobacco may have been more popular, but coins did see use. In 1636, Governor Sir John Harvey petitioned the king for farthing tokens to pay laborers. Although Harvey's request was not filled, three years later Lord Maltravers was granted a patent to mint copper farthing tokens for all British plantations except for Maryland.

Massachusetts silver coins circulated as far south as Virginia by 1660. Low Country silver lion daaler coins are recorded in use in Virginia as late as 1696 in spite of navigation laws designed to prevent Dutch merchant smuggling of wares and merchandizes.

Despite records of these coins and tokens, contemporary writers indicate specie was continuously scarce in Virginia

The first truly U.S. Colonial token may have been the 1714 and 1715 Righault & Dawson brass 12-pence token of Gloucester County, Va., better known as the "Gloucester shilling." Some researchers have suggested the shilling was a tobacco warehouse tally.

Tobacco had such an important role in the local economy that in 1755 Virginia was the only English Colony without a public loan office. The public loan office function as a land bank system assumed mortgaged real estate and silver plate would maintain the value of paper money.

Virginia issued its own paper money for the first time the same year, the last of the 13 Colonies to do so.

Colonial paper money depreciated in value in Virginia in the 1760s. Virginia's economic depression of the time was caused by a slump in the tobacco market, a slump that led to the Currency Act of 1764 extending parliamentary control over Colonial paper

Virginia provided public warehouse receipts for stored tobacco beginning in 1730. Some of these receipts circulated as money and were an important step between odd and curious tobacco money and scrip. The currency issue of July 11, 1771, funded the Colony's obligation for some tobacco warehouse receipts given for stored tobacco destroyed by a flood.

The Virginia copper halfence was sanctioned in 1773. Virginia "pistercen" (15 pence) paper money was issued two years later.

The use of paper money continued to develop as in 1780 scrip notes paid for army cloth-

Ironically, tobacco was revived as barter in 1785 due to a coin shortage

It wasn't until after the Revolution when federal coinage was produced in sufficient amounts for local use alongside foreign coins that tobacco became a cash crop rather than cash itself. GW TOBACCO MERCHANTS appear in a vignette on a 19th century Virginia note. Tobacco was more than a crop in Virginia it was actually used as money.

Randolph Family of Virginia

[ed. This article was found among other papers submitted to the Quarterly some time ago. They are carbon copies with type overs and many smudges so it is very difficult to read and interpret. I thought it was worthy of printing even though I do not know who submitted the information.]

(This copy taken from letters and records furnished me by Dr. Bruce Randolph now practicing medicine in Richmond, Virginia. He has made a rather extensive study of the subject and the information given herein is the fruit of many hours searching through archives as well as considerable expense in traveling to no few county seats and other remote locations in an attempt to make the record perfect. To date, there remains only one single link which has not been authenticated - that is, the link between the first Randolph (William Randolph, born 9 September 1769 and Fannie Brown, born 6 May 1777 - married 1806) who settled in Princess Anne County, Virginia and the Randolphs around Richmond. In other words, who was his father and mother? The answer to this question will be the last link to tie in the whole family back to 1500 AD. There is no doubt that a copy of the marriage certificate of the marriage of William Randolph to Fannie Brown would show the names of his parents as well as hers. This certificate should be in the records at Princess Anne Courthouse, but as Dr. Bruce Randolph informed me, it is now in the State Archives at Richmond being reconditioned - it was not available when he last visited that department, but probably is now. However, this latter information no doubt is recorded in a family bible or other family book now in the possession of some member of the family who probably lives in either Princess Anne or Norfolk Counties. This copy made by me in New York City, August 30, 1934 -- William Jennings Pritchard).

From other sources -

William Randolph, of Warwickshire, England, married Mary, daughter of Henry and Catherine Isham, of Bermuda Hundred (of the family of Isham in Northamptonshire and Baronets). They had seven sons and two daughters. William died at Turkey Island and is there buried.

His first son, William the Counsellor, also of Turkey Island, married Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Beverley, Esq., in Gloucester, whose wife was daughter of Robert Peyton, of an ancient family in the county of Norfolk. Their children were:

- First Beverley, of Turkey Island, who married Miss Lightfoot, and died childless.
- Second Peter of Chatsworth, who married Lucy, daughter of Robert Bolling, of Bollingbrook, who had: William, Beverley, Robert and Anne.
- Third William, of Wilton, who married Anne, daughter of Benjamin Harrison, of Berkeley, whose wife was, Anne Carter. The children of William and Anne were: 1st William, who died young; 2nd Peter, who died childless; 3rd Harrison, who died young; 4th Benjamin, who died young; 5th Peyton, who married his cousin Lucy Harrison (and had: William, Betsy, Kidder and Peyton); 6th Anne, who married Benjamin Harrison, of Brandon, in Prince George County; 7th Elizabeth, who married

- Fourth Mrs. John Chiswell
- Fifth Mrs. Price

[ed. In looking over this paper - you may assume the "R." means Randolph.]

Richard R., of Curles, brother of William the Counsellor (above), married Jane, daughter of John Bolling, of Cobbs, and granddaughter of Robert Bolling who married (the granddaughter of Pocahontas), John Rolfe, only daughter of the only son of Pocahontas - Thomas. This Jane and Robert Bolling had a son, John who married Mary Kennon, and had: 1st - John, married to Miss Blair, of Williamsburg; 2nd - Jane, the above mentioned wife of Richard, of Curles; 3rd - Mary, married John Fleming; 4th - Elizabeth, to Dr. Gay; 5th - Martha, to Eldredge; and 6th - Anna, to James Murray. The children of Richard Randolph of Curles, and Jane Bolling, were: 1st - Richard, of Curles, married Anne, daughter of David Meade, of Nansemond. Their children were: Jane, married to Archibald Bolling; Richard, married to Maria Beverley, of Blandfield; Sukey, to Benjamin Harrison, of Berkeley; David, to daughter of Thomas m. Randolph, of Tuckahoe, and to Anne Randolph, of Powhatan; Brett, to Lucy Beverley, sister to Richard's wife; Betsey, to David, son of Edward Brandon, in Middlesex County; Lucy, to Lewis Burwell, of King's Hill.

Thomas R., of Tuckahoe, married Miss Judith Fleming, and had: 1st - William, married an heiress, Miss Mann, of Mannsfield, near Fredericksburg, and had: Thomas Mann R. who married Anne Cary, (daughter of Archibald and Mary Cary, of Ampthill in Chesterfield County), whose children were: 1 - Mary, married David Meade R., second son of Richard, of Curles; 2 - Thomas Mann R., II, who married Martha, daughter of Thomas Jefferson, the son of Peter Jefferson, of Shadwell, Albemarle County, whose wife was Jane, daughter of Adjutant General Isham Randolph, of Dungeness, Goochland County, who died 17?2, aged 57; 3 - Eliza, married to R. Pleasants, son of R. Pleasants of Curles; 4 - Judy, married Richard R., son of John Randolph, Sr. of Roanoke; 5 - William, who married Lucy, daughter of Beverley R., son of the first Peter Randolph, of Chatsworth; 6 - Nancy, married Gouverneur Norris, of the State of New York; 7 - Jane, married to Thomas Eaton, son of William of Bristol, who was the son of Adj. General Isham Randolph, of Dungeness; 8 - John, married a Miss Lewis of Powhatan; 9 - Harriett, who married Richard Hackley; 10 - Virginia, married Wilson Jefferson, grandson of William Miles Cary, of Celes, near Hampton.

Adj. General Isham Randolph, of Dungeness, married Miss Rogers, of England, and had: 1st - Isham

2nd - William, of Bristol (above mentioned) Thomas, of Dungeness; Jane, married Peter Jefferson and was mother to Thomas Jefferson; Mary, married Meade, of Amelia; Ryland, to Miss Frayzer, of Petersburg; Sarah, to William Nawburn; Mary, to William, son of Thomas Bolling, of Cobbs, second child of Richard Randolph and Jan Bolling; Mary married Archibald Cary

Ampthill, and had Jane, who married Thomas M. Randolph, of Tuckahoe, Elizabeth married to Mr. Kincard, and Mary to Carter Page, of Cumberland.

3rd - Jane, married Anthony Walke, of Kempsville, Princess Anne County

4th - Brett, married in England to Mary Scott, and had: Brett of Powhatan; Harry of Warwick; and Mrs. Douglass, of Alexandria.

5th - Ryland, bought Turkey Island, of Col. Peter Randolph, at which place he lived and died a bachelor.

6th - Elizabeth, married Richard Kidder Meade, of Coggins Point last of "lucky Hit" Frederick County.

7th - John, of Roanoke, married Frances, youngest daughter of Theodorick Bland, of Cawsons, whose wife was Frances, daughter of Drury Bolling, son of Robert Bolling and his second wife, Miss Kits. (The other sons of this second marriage were: Robert Stith, Thomas, Edward, Agnes, Kennon and Anne Wynne). The children of John Randolph, of Roanoke were: 1st - Richard, married to Judy, daughter of Thomas M. Randolph of Tuckahoe, and had: St. George and Tudor, who died in England; 2nd - Theodorick Bland R., a young man of first rate talents, and who died young; 3rd - John Randolph, now of Roanoke, and a member of Congress.

Sir John Randolph, the Knight, General and also Speaker, married Susan Beverley, sister to his brother William's wife. Their children were:

1st - Beverley, of Gloucester, married to Miss Wormely, of Middlesex

2nd - Peyton, Speaker of the House of Burgesses and President of Congress. He was stricken with paralysis soon after Congress met in Philadelphia, and, therefore, history generally names Hancock as President of the first Congress. Peyton married Elizabeth Harrison, sister of governor Harrison, and died childless.

3rd - John, the King's Attorney General, married Miss Aria Anna Grymes and Mrs. James Arianna Wormely. Edmund, the son, once governor of Virginia, Attorney General of Virginia, and Secretary of State under Washington's administration, married Miss Elizabeth Nicholas in 1776, daughter of Robert Carter Nicholas and Anne Cary. He was then Attorney General of Virginia. Their children were: Peyton, who married the celebrated belle and beauty, Maria Ward. Says a writer of her: (and it is said that this writer was John Randolph) "All contemporary accounts unite in describing her as possessing a singular fascination of manner, a charming sweetness and amiability of disposition, an enchanting gayety and spirit, and peculiar, irresistible personal loveliness. At the time of her death she was still as fresh as a summer rose, as captivating in mind and manner as when she enthralled the passionate heart of John Randolph, of Roanoke. Beginning in his early boyhood, his love for her became the one enthralling passion of his life, thrilling his whole being, till as he himself said, he loved her better than his own soul, or him that created it. When General Lafayette visited the U.S. in 1824, he saw her at the ball given him by the citizens of Richmond, and requested an introduction. He afterwards called, by permission, to see her in her own home circle, and said, she was the most beautiful woman he saw in America. She died two years later 1826, in the 42nd year of her age. They had a large family of children several died in infancy. Peyton, the first, was a youth of brilliant promise. He died of brain fever at the age of 16. Only three children survived their parents: Edwin, Edmund and Charlotte Foushee, who married Dr. John Chelton. Of these, I will say more later. Sir John's 4th child was Mary, married Philip Grymes, of Brandon in Middlesex. Their children were: Philip, John, Charles, Benjamin, Lucy (who was Mrs. General Thomas Nelson), Susan, (Mrs. Nathaniel Burwell), Frederick, Mary, (Mrs. Robert Nelson) and Eliza, (Mrs. Dr. Pope)."

Edward married an heiress of England and had: 1 - Joseph; 2 - Edward, married Lucy Harrison, of Berkely, and had: Harrison (married 1st-Miss Starke; 2nd-Miss Jones, of Brunswick), and Mrs. Latel; 3rd-Elizabeth, married William Yates; 4th-Mary, married Robert Yates.

Mary Randolph, married to William Stith, had: 1st - William Stith, President of William & Mary College, the Historian of Virginia, who married Judy Randolph, of Tuckahoe, Polly Stith, of Williamsburg was their first child; 2nd - John Stith of Charles City; 3rd - Mary Stith, married to Commissary Davison, who had a son, who married Miss Dawson, of North Carolina, William Johnson Davison, late member of Congress was of this union.

Elizabeth Randolph, married Theodore Bland, and had: 1st - Richard of Jorfan Point, member of Old Congress of 1775-6; 2nd - Theoderick B., married Frances Bolling, only daughter of Drury Bolling. Their children were: Theodorick; Mrs. Bannister, of Battersen; Mrs. Ruffin; Mrs. Eaton; Mrs. Haynes; and Mrs. Randolph, afterwards - Mrs. Tucker; 3rd - Mary, married Richard Lee, and had: Henry, Richard, Mrs. Ball and Mrs. Fitzhugh; 4th - Elizabeth, married to Richard Beverley, of Blandfield, whose children were Robert and Elizabeth; 5th - Jane, married Robert Mumfred.

Sir John Randolph, fifth son of William R. and Mary Isham, married Susan Beverley. A letter of John Randolph, of Roanoke, speaks of him as Knight, General and Speaker. He had three sons: Beverley R. of Gloucester, who married Miss Wormley; Peyton, Speaker of the House of Burgesses, and President of the first Congress which met at Philadelphia, who married Elizabeth, sister of Governor Harrison, no children; and John, the King's Attorney General who married Miss Arianna Jennings of Maryland. They had only one son, Edmund, and 2 daughters: Susann Beverley Grymes and Mrs. James Arianna.

This latter EDMUND, married Miss Nichols in 1776. Of this event the "Virginia Hazette", then published in Williamsburg, says "Edmund Randolph, Esq., Attorney General of Virginia, to Miss Betty Nichols, a young lady, whose amiable sweetness of disposition, joined with the finest interllectual accomplishments, cannot fail of rendering the worthy man of her choice completely happy." Then follow some verses in their praise, which will be found in my desk, if wanted - Kindly copied by Elizabeth Cock.

Edmund was afterwards Governor of Virginia, and Secretary of State under Washington's administration. At the beginning of hostilities between England and her colonies, Edmund's father, the King's Attorney General returned to England, but his son espoused the cause of the Colonies as did also his Uncle Peyton. Edmund had one son: Peyton, who married Mariza Ward; and three daughters: Mrs. Judge Daniel, who had one son, Peter V. D, a lawyer, in Richmond, VA, and 2 daughters, Miss Elizabeth D. and Mrs. Chas. Moncure; 2nd Mrs. Thomas Preston of Lexington, and Mrs. William Cooke, of Oakland, Goochland County; 4th - Mrs. Bennet Taylor, of Albemarle.

This latter Peyton was for many years, a prominent lawyer of Richmond, VA. He also wrote a History of Virginia, which, however, he never published. The MSS lies in the Library of the State, much valued as a work of reference. Although disabled by paralysis for several year, he survived his wife, Maria Ward. They had ten children, only three of whom survived their parents -

- 1 Edwin, died unmarried
- 2 Edmund, married Miss Tarmesia Meaux, of New Orleans. He went to San Francisco in the early settlement of that state. He was lawyer of brilliant mind, and stood foremost in his profession. He alone represented the US Government in the suit brought in 1858 to establish its claim to the New Alamaden Quick Silver mines in California. The Spanish claimants were represented by Bevereley Johnson, Judah P. Benjamin and several lawyers. The mines were of great value, and the struggle for possession was a hard fought one. Mr. Randolph's closing argument occupied about 300 pages. From the court room he went home to his bed and died in a few days, Sept. 8, 1861, aged 42 years. After his death the case was decided in favor of the U.S. and Judge Black said in his report that "for magnitude of interest and bulk of record, no more important case had ever been brought before the supreme court". His wife and three daughters survive him: 1- Margaret; 2- Lucy; 3- Mary C. married Joseph Kent, of Kenton, Wythe County, Virginia. They had one daughter Lucy Randolph Kent.
- 3 Charlotte Foushee, married Dr. John G. Skelton, of "Paxton", Powhatan County, Virginia, but a practitioner of Richmond, VA since 1886. She died in her 22nd year, leaving an infant daughter, Maria Ward Skelton, whom married John Langhourne Williams, of Richmond, VA, son of John Williams of Monoghan County, Ireland (whose sister was Mrs. John Bell, of Bollville, near Richmond, VA) and Suanna Dandridge.

The Coat of Arms

"Gules (red) on a cross argent (silver) Five mullets (pierced) sable (black)

The crest used by the American family is an Antelope's head, argent, couped holding a stick of gold. The motto - "Fari Quae Sentiat".

An article by Frances Gowles says:

"The above coat of arms belongs to the Virginia Family of Randolph, and the English Family by that name seated at Badeleamere, County, Cambridge. The Coat of Arms was confirmed March 15, 1571, in the 13th year of Queen Elizabeth to Thomas Randolph of a County Wilts Knight by the name of Randolph of Kent."

From "Display of Heraldry" (Gwilliam)" by not piercing the mullets the Randolphs of Virginia changed the Kent rowels to stars".

Following is a copy from "Burks General Armory" -

"Rev. Thomas Randolph, M.A. Rector of Hadenham County Herts., - prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral, and Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen, eldest surviving son of the late John Randolph, D.D., Bishop of Oxford, 1806, and of London, 1809, lineal descendant of Bernard Randolph, Esquire of Biddenden County, Kent, born 1556.

Coat of Arms is:

Red on a Cross silver
Five mullets pierced sable (black)
Crest - Antelope's head erased, or (gold)

Lucy Randolph visited a hotel, I think, in Oxford, where is the same Coat of Arms as used in Virginia. She found Randolphs in or near Oxford, who know certainly the Virginia kinship.

Mr. William G. Stanard, Secretary of Virginia Historical Society, gave the copy below as being in a manuscript in Virginia Historical Society from Mr. Wilson Mile's Cary, of Balto, "The Visitation of Northamptonshire 1682 in giving the pedigree of the Ancestor of the Virginia Randolphs gives the Coat of Arms:

Crest - an antelope's head, or holding in his mouth a pillar, argent.

Princess Anne County Branch 1769 - 1934

Records which have been looked up to date do not know who the parents were of William Randolph, who was born September 9, 1769, married Fanny Brown of Princess Anne County and settled there. It is highly possible that he could have been either of the following:

Possibilities -

- 1. Could have been the son of either
 - a. William Randolph, who married Miss Andrews, of Williamsburg.
 - b. Peyton Randolph, who married Miss Innis, of Williamsburg.

- 2. Could have been the grandson of either
 - a. Harrison Randolph
 - b. Benjamin Randolph
- 3. May be others -

Authentic proof of his parentage (William Randolph who married Fanny Brown) will be the final solution. There is no doubt of the existence of such records.

William Randolph, had by his second wife, Elizabeth Jane (Morris) -

a. Oliver R., born August 12, 1859.

Among the letters and other data which I obtained from Dr. Bruce Randolph, of Richmond, there is one which gives numerous births, marriages and deaths which were copied from a family bible, - these are all incorporated in the foregoing page; but there is one sentence which is puzzling as it mentions the names of a brother and sister to William Randolph (jr. or 2nd) born September 29, 1807. The names are: Benjamin and Janetta, which have not be mentioned in any other data. His other brother was Bennett, born October 30, 1796.

It will be noticed that the first names: William; Peyton; Benjamin and Thomas are names common to the Randolphs of Turkey Island and Tuckahoe. There is no reasonable doubt that William Randolph of Princess Anne is not a direct descendant of either one of these. Authentic proof would be most welcome.

Three of my lines descend from Benjamin (1734-1832) and James (1757) Bolling, supposed son of Maj. John and Elizabeth Blair Bolling ("Blue Bollings") a fourth as yet untraced line is probably a very close repeat of my James Bolling line.

RE: Eldridge

From: Carol-Anne Eldridge, Ed D, 21 Joston Drive, Merrimack, NH 03054

I am interested in the information which you have on the Eldridge family. All that I have is a family legend of descent from Pocahontas which I have not yet been able to prove. However, I must say that out of all the family lines I've been working on this Eldridge family is the toughest nut to crack. I think I've traced my family back to William Eldridge b. abt 1740 and Deborah Malander who lived in Gloucester and later Greenwich, NJ. William's father is reported to be a Thomas Eldridge and would have been of about the right time period to be the Thomas Eldridge who married Martha Bolling. However, I know nothing about the Thomas Eldridge, father of William-I don't even know where William was born. All I have is that his birth was abt 1740. William and Thomas were common names in our family- David Eldridge b. 1827 (my husband's gr grandfather) had sons William and Thomas C. who lived in Knoxville, TN. What I have for a family line is the following:

Thomas ELDRIDGE
William ELDRIDGE(abt 1740)
Enos ELDRIDGE (6 Nov 1764)
Enos ELDRIDGE (1798)
David ELDRIDGE (1827)
Alfred George ELDRIDGE (1866)

RE: Eldridge

From: John Rolfe Eldridge, 10515 Cascade Place, Silver Spring, MD 20902

Two years ago when Stuart Brown was preparing his newest volumes on Pocahontas Descendants, Third Revision and Corrections... I had submitted to him a family of five generations and 143 names which his previous research had overlooked... My family is descended from the marriage of Martha Bolling to Thomas Eldridge in 1737. In the first volume of Pocahontas Descendants, The Pocahontas Foundation researchers correctly found John Rolfe Bolling Eldridge (ID#514). They listed two sons and four grandchildren. But they missed two grandchildren: William Benjamin Eldridge (b1844) and John Rolfe Eldridge. John Rolfe Eldridge died in the Civil War and left no issue as did none of the other grandchildren except William Benjamin Eldridge. This last name was my grandfather. I submitted the results of my research to Mr. Brown and he has incorporated the descendants of William Benjamin Eldridge (ID51424) into the Third Corrections and Additions on pages 110 and 114. This family and all of the details are a product of my personal research based on documentation and conversation with known family members.

My great-grandmother was born July 18, 1874 in Arkansas and was English and quarter Cherokee Indian. I can't find anything on her father or mother. Her name was Adna Adney Griffin and she married a Arthur Columbus Cagle. She died 1921 of Palegra and Asthma. According the information on the by your organization, it said that the surname of Griffin could make you a descendant of Pocahontas. I don't know what tribe or breed Pocahontas was, so will have to wait to hear from you as to whether there might be a connection.

I discovered your website, yesterday, and was surprised to see my mother's maiden name, Harris, listed as one of the "offspring" of Pocahontas. Although there no likely connection, it is an interesting possibility that I would like to check out. I grew up in York, Co. and my mother's family is from Surrey and Petersburg. Below is the lineage as far as I know it:

Robert Thomas HARRIS, father of James Kemper HARRIS, father of Maxine HARRIS Hicks, mother of Wayne HARRIS Hicks

I would appreciate any research information that would assist me in making the connection.

RE: Harris, Byram

From: Mary Griffiths, 12 Disney Ave., Pasadena, MD 21122-2157

I am in search of information on my great-great-grandmother, Virginia Hamilton Harris. Old family lore rumors that Virginia was full-blooded Native American and that she may have been related to Pocahontas, or at least of the Powhatan tribe. The only information that I have on Virginia is that she was born in Culpepper County, Va., on 2 January,. 1846 married James Nimrod Byram on 28 August 1858 and that she died in Culpepper on July 19, 1933. I have been unable to find anything further and of course, and family members who would have that information have long passed on.

RE: Hays

From: Freda Hays, 101 Rainbow Drive, #3415, Livingston, TX 77351

I would like to inquire if you have the descendants of Powhatan Chief Opechancanough, the uncle to Pocahontas and also the descendants of Chief Powhatan in your library? The family name that I am researching is Davis. The great-great grandmother, Martha B. Davis, is said to be the fourth generation from, or cousin to Pocahontas. Two of Martha's grandsons were names James Potan Hays and Adam Powhatan Hays.

RE: Jones

From: Belinda Armstrong, RR 1, Amboy, Indiana 46911

I recently bought a book about doing Native American research. It suggested finding where the particular tribe being researched migrated. Could you refer me to any books concerning the Powhatan migration or were they absorbed into other tribes? My great-grandfather, Thomas Rees Jones, said he was the 12th generation from Pocahontas. His father was born in Kentucky. The book said to follow the tribe's movements until they coincide with the white line. That's when both are in the same location this is probably where the link occurs.

RE: King, cousins of Pocahontas

From: Nancy Clayton, P.O. Box 153, Utopia, TX 78884

My mother's family - on her father's side - came from Scotland and England to the New World in the early 1600's. According to our family history through the years, there were two brothers, last name KING, who were in debt and could not pay their taxes. They were given a choice of going to jail or come to the New World as indentured servants. They came to the new world!

They worked for seven years to pay off their debts back in England and Scotland. They each married Indian maidens. . . cousins of Powhatan, the father of Pocahontas. As far as we know, they arrived in the very first groups of settlers in the early 1600's.

We have no record of them or their families until Henry King shows ups in Virginia and Tennessee in the early 1800s. Henry King had a son named David, who was a Presbyterian minister New Tazewell (Claiborne County) Tennessee. David King had two wives. . . one a Harriet Hollingsworth, and another, Susie or Suzie, an Indian girl. They had one son name William Fletcher King, who married Martha Elizabeth Laws. Their son was Otis King. Otis married Tessie ann Kelley and had my mother: Yuval Cleone King. She married Abner Ewing Clayton and had me!!

In searching for the name KING in Virginia records, I cam across two male KING names in the Second Virginia Charter of May 23, 1609: Captain William Kinge (King) and Raphe Kinge (King). The name King was spelled with an "e" but is really KING.

Also, on the Third Charter of March 12, 1612 - there is Captain John King listed. Could these two Kings or one of them and the third King name be my relatives?

One member of my mother's family had the King family Bible in her home for years and it had most of what we know about the two brothers and the name Powhatan written in it. Unfortunately, when she died several years ago, the Bible disappeared.

I would live to be able to trace my family back to these two brothers. . and their wives who were relatives of Pocahontas. . . and even back to England and Scotland.

RE: Mewburn

RE: Pinn, Cooper, Page

From: Anita L. Wills, 2041 Miramonte Ave., #12, San Leandro, CA 94578

The surname given to my ancestors were:

Pinn & Cooper of Virginia: The first recorded Pinn was Robert Pinn who lived in Northlumberland County Virginia about 1710. He was said to be the brother of "Indian" David Pinn who also lived in Northumberland County. Robert & Margaret (his wife) had 2 sons Robert II & Rawley (Rolly Penn) b., abt. 1742 (my direct ancestor). Robert served in the Revolutionary War out of Lancaster County along with is sons, John, Billy & James. Rawley left Eastern Virginia and eventually settled in Amherst County where he too, served in the Revolutionary War. Rolly has been recognized as a Monacan and I have recently registered with the tribe in Amherst County. However, I am interested in the Cooper side of my family, who were also in Amherst County and seem to have come from Goochland County. I am also seeking information as to whether or not any of the Pinn's are members of the Powhatans.

Paige, My great-great grandmother, Tamzyine (Page) Martin lived in Southeastern Pennsylvania in the Welsh Mountain region of Lancaster County. She was Native American and states on the 1860 census that she was born in Pennsylvania. She lists her nationality as "mulatto" but the family states that she was Indian and may have come from Maryland. I am looking for any information on the Page surname that may be "Powhatan".

RE: Randolph- Perry, Wells

From: Sandy Patton, 2196 Kentwood Drive, Mansfield, OH 44903

...my family has been working on their family tree for a long time. . . my dad is still alive and I have been trying hard to finish it for his 80th birthday for a gift for him. In December I went to Kentucky to search for more information and while there I ran across some papers and names that make a claim to the descendants of Pocahontas with our family. I have tried to look for this information, I ran across your list of family members on her on the computer and the information you gave does not list all of the information on the children and who they married. I think this is where we come into the family tree. The name I am interested in is the family of Jane Bolling Randolph. The information:

(ME) Sandra Jean Patton 8/09/1960 daughter of

Ralph Donald Perry 1/21/1921, son of Harland Powers Perry 11/01/1902 son of

Ulysses Grant Perry 10/06/1872 son of Anderson William Perry 2/12/1849 son of Cyrus Perry, 11/20/1820 son of Thomas D. Perry and Martha B. Wells (Martha b 11/10/1804) She was the daughter of Garner Ashby from Virginia.

Garner Ashby was the daughter of Mrs. Randolph who was to be related to Pocahontas.

Do you have a family tree that matches up with the families of Ashby or maybe Wells. If Mrs. Jane Bolling Randolph had a daughter that married an Ashby this could be the tie I am looking for.

RE: Randolph

From: Janis Norris, P.O. Box 2025, Hotchkiss, CO 81419

My question concerns a Frances Randolph. Frances married John Jones in Virginia. They had several children, one of whom was Elizabeth Frances Jones. Elizabeth Frances Jones married Joel Halbert, Sr., This is the line from which I descend. Can you tell me if Frances Randolph was indeed the child of Jane Bolling and Richard Randolph? I have seen Frances listed as their child in some pedigrees, but have never been able to prove this myself.

RE: Vaughn

From: Herschel E. Vaughn, Jr., 343 N.E. Hollywood Blvd., Ft. Walton Beach, Fla. I am writing with reference to your article on Pocahontas and relationship to her. My ancestors were the Vaughn and the West and did notice that both were listed in party of the message my GGgp was James E. Vaughn b. 1822 and my GGGgp was George West b. abt. 1796 and his son was William Henry West b. 1822.

RE: West, Barnhill

From: Tanis Diedrichs, 2804 Walnut Street, Cedar Falls, Iowa 50613

I have a WEST as a collateral line. Susannah BARNHILL, born 29 Sept 1797, York Co., PA, m c. 1820 Columbian Co., Ohio to Thomas WEST b. 1794, Virginia. Thomas was a free colored man. After 1830, they moved to Cuyahoga Co., Ohio and had a farm. Susannah and Thomas and other members of the family were buried in the West Cemetery which was on the family farm,. It is now part of the city of Independence. Susannah was sister to my gr. gr. grandfather Phillip Barnell. A few years ago I talked to a grandson of Ephriam West (1834-1930), son of Thomas and Susannah, who remembered his grandfather very well. He said his grandfather had told him about Pocahontas. Was this just a fascinating story a grandfather might tell a child or might there be a family connections? I don't have any other information on Thomas West. Census records indicate he was born in Virginia c. 1794.

RE: Wynne

Dear Pocahontas Foundation:

I am writing you in hopes that you may be able to help me locate an art print of Pocahontas. I am not sure there is or ever was a reproduction ever made.

I am a descendant of Pocahontas and I would very much like to purchase a print of an original art piece owned by Mr. William E. Ryder. The artist was Jean Leon Gerome Ferris, MATOAX, c. 1921, oil on canvas, 35×24 in. I am not sure if there is or ever was a print reproduction ever made. If there was, perhaps you may be able to help me locate one.

So far, I have contacted the Virginia Historical Society. They do have available is the dipiction of the Abduction of Pocahontas, by Ferris, painted in 1910. I am interested in this one, but favor the one I have listed above.

If you have any information or know where I may locate a print, please let me know. You may contact me by the following information:

Hi, my uncle has done an enormous amount of genealogy research and thinks we may be descended from Pocahontas. Perhaps you could verify or give suggestions on proving this possible connection. As you know, Thomas Rolfe, her son, married Jane Poythress. They had one child, a daughter, Jane Rolfe, who married Col. Robert Boling. They had a son Col. John Bolling/Boling/Bolin /Bowling/Bowlin (variant spellings) who married Mary Kennon. Their son, Major John Boling was born in 1700. He married Elizabeth Blair; they had 21 children. One of these was "Benjamin Boling, born 1734, m. Pattie Felts. He moved from VA to NC. Then they moved to Tennessee and later to Eastern Kentucky. One of his sons, Jesse Boling/Bowling applied for a Rev. War Pension from Clay Co., Ky., in 1832. Rev. Jesse Bolin m. (1) Polly Green, (2) Mary Pennington. His children included: John E., Justice, Polly, Hannah, Betty, William, Jesse Jr., John, and Elijah. Elijah Boling/Bowling married Susannah Roberts. Their children were: Elijah, who m. Zilpha Baker, Delaney m. Sally Spicer, Elisha m. Elvira Crawford, and Jesse who m. America Crawford. My family Bolin/Boling/Bowling: John D. Bolin -- he married Lucind a Baker abt. 1856/57. Dear Ms. Richardson,

I've been searching the internet for more information on Pocahontas and came across your newsletter. I am very interested and will be sending in a check for my subscription soon. According to a second, double, cousin of my mother's research into our family tree, I am a direct descendant of Pocahontas. My grandmother's, father's name was John Bowlin a variation of Bolling, who was Pocahontas' great-great grandson. This would make Pocahontas my fifth-great grandmother. In my younger years I never really thought of the significance of this but as I grow older I am facinated with my native-american ancestry and want to learn all I can about it.

I'm looking forward to receiving your newsletter.

Hello,

I have recently found out I may be a descendant of Pocahontas on both sides of my family. My ancestor, Charles Duval, is a descendant of Samuel Shepherd DuVal of Va., who married Anne Everard Bolling, a descendant of Pocahontas.

Here are my Duval ancestors:

Samuel Duvall m. Lucie Claiborne<Samuel Shepherd DuVal m. Anne Bolling<Charles Duvall m. Ayres?<Frances Asbury Duval m. Celicia Lee<William S. Duval m. Mary Belle Grugin<Myrtie Duvall m. Dorman Harrod<Harold Harrod m. Charlotte McHone<(ME) Sharon Harrod m. Paul Puckett.

In addition, on my maternal side, John D. Bolling/Bolin married Lucinda Baker; however, I am unable to locate his father. However, the President of the Bolling Association told me he undoubtedly is descended from the Elizabeth Blair and Bolling, because the Bollings and Bakers intermarried frequently from North Carolina and into Kentucky, where John D. Bolling/Bowlin and Lucinda Baker married.

If this qualifies me as a descendant of Pochontas, I would be honored and would like to be a part of the Pochontas Society and Foundation. I thank you in advance,
Sharon Harrod Puckett

In the course of researching my family tree I have found that I am a descendent of Micajah Snead and Sarah Bolling (1740's) of Halifax County, VA. I am trying to determine if Sarah was a direct descendent of Pocahontas...any help you can provide is appreciated.

ps. Sarah Bolling died after 1797. One of their children was Benjamin Snead (born 1765 Halifax Co.). Bejamin's son Nickerson Snead eventually settled in Washington, then Russell Counties in VA. He was a prominent physician.

Good morning. Allow me to introduce myself. My name is Claire Pence Bentley and I'm an employee at PRC Inc., a software development company in the Tyson's Corner, VA area. Just found your website and wanted to communicate. I am married to a Bentley and we are members of the Bolling Family Association.

My husband's father was William C. Bentley, Jr., m. Barbara Towsend Greene.

His father was William C. Bentley, m., Lulu Logan.

His father was Efford Bolling Bentley, m. Lucy Williamson Chamberlayne.

His mother was Elizabeth Gay, m. Peter Efford Bentley.

Her mother was Elizabeth Bolling, m. Dr. William Gay.

I'm sorry, but without the rest of the family history in front of me, I can't go further back to Robert Bolling, etc.

If you'd further documentation, I'll be glad to provide it.

I look forward to hearing from you.

I've been against a brick wall for several months now. And everything I do doesn't seem to work out. I went to my local library and ordered books on Pocahontas decendants and they can't get a single book for me. I go to a book dealer and they can't get any books either. I sent off for a bunch of articles from PERSI and none of them touched on my problem. According to my mother's notes, one of my ancestors, Joseph Bolling married Rebecca Maddox. And sure enough at Ancestry under Early American Marriages, Atlantic South, I found that a Joseph Bolling married Rebecca Maddox on March 1, 1795 in Franklin Co., VA. My brick wall is that I cannot find any Bollings with a son named Joseph in Virginia during this time period. I find other Joseph Bollings at later dates and in NC and KY, etc. And I have the Bollings back to about 900 AD and up thru Pocahontas to John and Robert, I just cannot bridge a generation or two gap. Maybe there are other Bollings that are not in the Pocahontas line? Or maybe my mother was mistaken. Supposedly, Joseph and Rebecca had a daughter named Nancy Bolling who married a Thomas Cook. They had a daughter named Nancy Bolling Cook b. c 1824 in Pennsylvania Co., Va. Maybe if I could find who Nancy's parent's were (for sure) I might find a different Bolling for her father that would tie into the Pocahontas line. I am at my wits end. What does an expert like you suggest? - Bev Cavender

Hello,

While doing genealogical research on my Watson roots, I remembered my mother telling me as a child that I might be related to John Rolfe and John Randolph. I realize the tendency of people to do a lot of wishful thinking along these lines, but when I looked up John Rolfe, I saw my surname, Watson, included in the list of possible descendants of Pocahontas.

It's not my intent to tie in to anyone important, just to try to find ancestors for James Wilson Watson, Jr., born March 1852. Location uncertain but he lived in Tennessee when most of his children were born. I've reached a dead end looking for his father or anyone farther back.

There were lots of James Watsons but I cannot confirm any as ancestors.

In your archives, do you have any reference to James Wilson Watson, who ended up in Tennessee?

Thanks.

Pocahontas was somehow supposed to be related to me thru my ancestor John Wesley. He was married to Nancy Randolph who I believe was the GGGgrandaughter of John Bolling. Nancy was the daugher of John Randolph & Frances Bland, John was the son of Jane Bolling & Richard Randolph I, Jane was the daughter of John Bolling & Mary Kennon. John was the son of Jane Rolfe & Robert Bolling. Jane was the daughter of Jane Poythyress & Thomas Rolfe. Thomas was the son of Pocahontas. Would your organization be of assistance in identifying any of Pocahontas's (Matoaka's) sisters? We believe we descend from a younger sister named Cleopatra (clearly named after 1607) who was the mother of Nicketti, who married a Scotsman named Hughes.

Or is your organization limited to Pocahontas only?

Dear Mr. . Bland:

I would like to request some of your time and assistance in determining some missing links in my ancestral genealogy, if it is at all possible. If not, maybe you could email me at thoke@gnsys.com for some suggestions of other places I might be able to contact. I have sent a copy of this to the publisher of the "Pocahontas Quarterly" as well, as it seems from some of the data I have shows a connection to that lineage.

The links I seem to be missing predate 1821 in regards to the parents and grandparents of my great, great grandfather, Reverend Adam Bland. Following is some information I have obtained based on either personal research, and information from my father prior to his demise in 1973. Could the links possibly be filled in, based on the information in the following paragraphs?

Thanking you for any assistance..... Maria Bland-Hoke

Off and on over the last several years I have been doing some research on my father's family who was originally from Virginia several generations ago.

I was always told, before my father passed away twenty-five years ago, that we were descendents of Pocahontas; that there was at one time a Bland plantation in Virginia (known as Kimages); and that we were also from a long line of Methodist Episcopal ministers of that area.

What I do know is the name of my great, great grandfather -- Reverend Adam Bland born around 1821 in Virginia -- and that he was sent to California as a missionary around 1851 by the Methodist Church. He established the First Methodist Church of Los Angeles (documented as the oldest Methodist Church in California). This information is from a copy of an article that was given to me by someone entitled "The History of Methodism in Southern California and Arizona" by Edward Drewry Jervey.

I also know that he built a church in Lompoc, Santa Rita and in Ballard in Santa Barbara County where I reside. This documentation came from the Lompoc Historical Society which has record of Reverend Bland along with the names of his children -- one of which was Register Webb Bland who was my grandfather's (Reginald Bland) father.

While helping my daughter with other research at the library last week, I stumbled on a book entitled "Old Churches, Ministers and Families of Virginia". There were several references to the "genealogy of the Blands as preserved at Jordans" and it mentioned a Theodoric Bland who settled at Westover, in Charles City, in1654, and who died in 1671. He had three sons—Theodoric, Richard and John.

Richard, Sr. (born 1665) also had two sons, Richard and Theodoric. It was mentioned that "Richard (the son, who died in 1776 and was buried at Jordans), was the one who took so active a part in the affairs of both Church and State before and during the Revolution", and married a Miss Poythress "who had twelve children."

Richard Bland, JR.'s brother, Theodoric married a Miss Bolling, who is said to have been a descendent of Pocahontas, and he also had one son, Theodoric, and five daughters. Theodoric (according to the same book) was "Lieutenant of the country, Clerk, Burgess, and vestryman....In the year of 1769, while living at Blandford, or Petersburg, and practicing medicine, we find his name on the list of vestrymen, thus following his father's footsteps."

The gap that is missing, I suppose, would be after this time and up until the early 1800's when Adam Bland was born. Is there anyone or is there any place, to your knowledge, that I might be able to contact for records of the children of both Richard Bland, JR. and of Theodoric Bland?

I appreciate your time taken in the reading of this letter. Thank you very much... Maria Bland-Hoke thoke@gnsys.com

Bolling Powell Praises Princess Pocahontas

Honorable Bolling Powell of Warner Hall

Bolling Powell, a descendant of Indian Princess Pocahontas, and attorney who resides at Warner Hall in Gloucester paid tribute to his relative at a ceremony at the Pocahontas statue in Gloucester on Saturday. The Improved Order of Red men and the Degree of Pocahontas sponsored the event.

Mr. Powell said, "We have met here today to honor and remember Pocahontas. Some 394, I think, years right here ago Gloucester County, in the area we now call Wicomico down on the York River there occured a historic event that not only changed the history of Virginia, but it changed the history of what was North American and the United States as we know it today and indeed it changed the history of the World."

"And that was the day Princess Pocahontas saved the Colony. The Colony was tottering on extinction and it just simply had not been able to make it. It looked like the same thing was going to happen in Virginia at Jamestown that happened in North Carolina in connection with the Lost Colony of Roanoke."

"If Captain John Smith had died, that would have ended the Colony at Jamestown."

Pocahontas' mother was one of the English ladies who was in the Lost Colony of Roanoke in North Carolina.

Mr. Powell said Pocohontas is his greatgrandmother 14 generaions back. "I have a brother John Rolfe, to prove it".

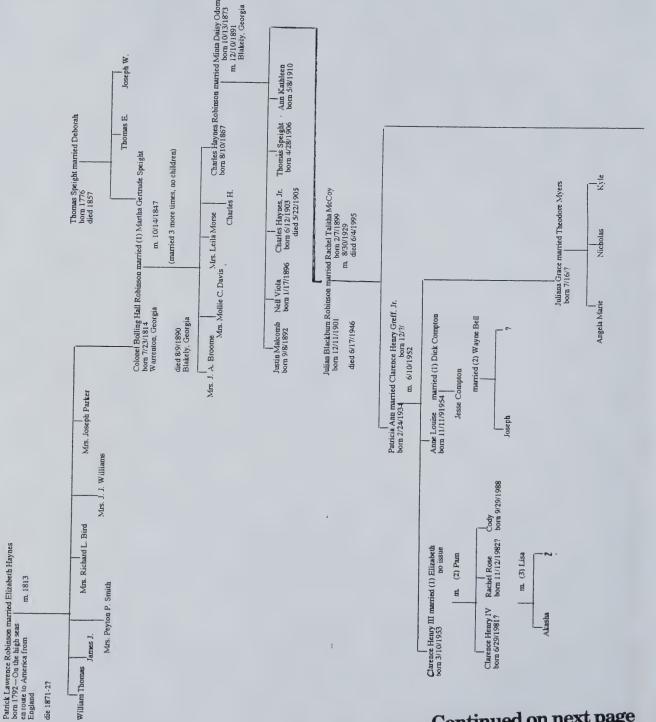

Rolfe married Pocahontas and had one. son, Thomas Rolfe, who married an English lady and they had one daughter, Jane Rolfe, Jane married one Robert Bolling who had a plantation across the James River on the south side. Robert and Jane Bolling had one son, when the mother soon died. People who come down from that one son are called "red" Bollings. Mr. Powell is a red Bolling.

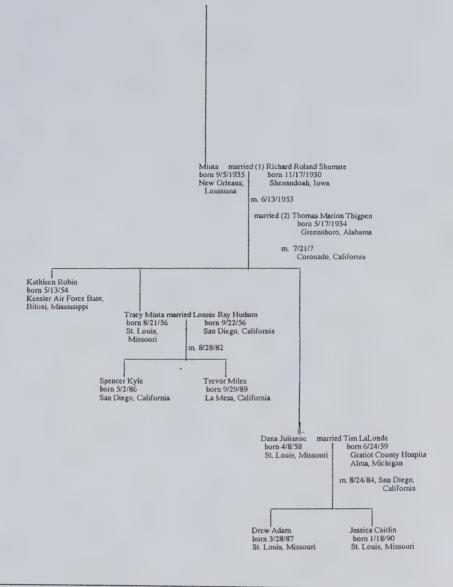

To Whom It May Concern:

There has been a story passed down on my mother's side of the family that Pocahontas and/or John Rolfe are our ancestors.

I discovered your Web Page and found my mother's maiden name, Robinson, listed. We can trace the name back to Patrick Lawrence Robinson, bon on the "high seas" on the way to America from England in 1792, who married a woman named Elizabeth Haynes in 1813. My family is descended from their son Colonel Bolling Hall Robinson.

The coincidence of the names "Robinson" and "Bolling" have prompted me to write to see if a firm connection can be made. I have been unable to trace the ancestry of Elizabeth or that of Patrick Lawrence Robinson. I have enclosed a copy of our family tree and would appreciate receiving any information you may have to confirm or deny any relation to Pocahontas and/or John Rolfe. Pine Ridge Runner & Relief Missions for Native Americans

David and Nola Sweet have taken on the project of collecting clothing, food, blankets, coats and other needed items for the Native Americans on Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota. This need was brought to their attention by John and Sharen Sun Eagle on the Mattaponi Reservation near West Point, Va. They run a sponsorship program for needy children of several reservations. People can contact the Sun Eagle's via the Internet and take on assisting a child year round.

Last fall a huge amount of clothing and coats had been collected at the Sun Eagle's to be taken to Pine Ridge. However, the transportation fell through. So Nola coordinated further collection of items and boxing for shipping, and raised enough money for gas and food for the trip. The Sun Eagles provided a co-driver and David Sweet used his personal pickup truck and small trailer to haul the ton plus of clothing to South Dakota, arriving in time for distribution for Christmas

The Williamsburg Gazette ran a story about the trip, and the fact that the Sweets are going to make this trip regularly in the future as items and expense money are contributed. The response from the Williamsburg area has been so great that in two weeks, enough clothing and cash has been donated to make the second trip possible this month.

Pastor Don Marsh and his congregation at the Poquoson Assembly of God donated the majority of money needed for the first trip. They have agreed to work with us to wit: donations and financial contributions can receive tax credit thru their non-profit status.

The Friends of the Homeless Shelter in Newport News has contributed excess clothing donated to them. There is enough for a third trip. Upon our return from this second trip, a press release will be sent to local media regarding our trips, our intention of further aid, along with photos of the families receiving the items, photos of us and our vehicle at Pine Ridge,

We are looking at making four-six trips per year, at least one of which will carry 5 tons or more of needed items and materials. Our hopes are to enlist the service of a larger truck, perhaps an 18 wheeler for this annual trip. We will also be looking for donations of materials for repair/renovation of some of the home there. These items would include furniture, building/plumbing materials, generators, appliances, etc.

Among the things needed to make this happen, are a vehicle sponsor to cover the pretrip tune-ups and maintenance. We are also looking for a camper shell to replace the shell damaged on the last trip. In return for vehicle sponsorship, the sponsor's logo and/or company name will be prominently displayed on the vehicle. The vehicle will be featured in our photographic documentation and vehicle pictures will always be submitted to the press. Sponsors will be named in press coverage. We would also make the vehicle available for sponsor's publicity needs. We are considering naming the truck the Pine Ridge Runner.

Facts about Pine Ridge from Red Cloud Indian School:

The Pine Ridge Reservation is the site of "the last great battle of the Indian Wars" according to the United States government. However, it was not the site of a battle, but the locale for the Wounded Knee Massacre. In 1890, approximately 150 (mostly elderly, women and children) were gunned down.

History refers to these people as the Sioux (derived from a French word meaning "snake"). Yet, the people refer to themselves as the Lakota Nation. (The word Lakota comes from a word meaning "Friend"). The Lakota Nation consisted of great leaders such as Red Cloud, Big Foot, Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, American Horse, etc. The people who presently live on the reservation are a wonderful people. They have a beautiful culture filled with respect and generosity. Yet, they have been forced to live on land that is not conducive to farming, ranching or industry. (There is a reason that much of this area is referred to as the "Badlands".)

The following are a few facts about the reservation today: Population: 20,000 Lakota people; unemployment: 85% (people want to work but there is no industry, etc.); per capita in come: $4,000.00; Life Expectancy: Male 55 (U.S. avg. 75) and female 60 (U.S. avg. 80); Infant mortality rate: -12 per 1,000 live births (U.S. Avg.) and -27 per 1,000 live births (Pine Ridge avg.) Suicide Ratetwice the national average Death due to heart disease: twice the national average 37% of population is diabetic due to poor quality of food. A study from the University of South Dakota reported that 69% of the children on the Pine Ridge Reservation live below the poverty line.

Red Cloud Indian School/Holy Rosary Mission is addressing the needs of the people of the Pine Ridge Reservation. Red Cloud Indian School teaches the students to be proud of their Lakota culture, language, and spirituality. Red Cloud also gives them the educational tools needed for today, by teaching math, science, English, computer science, etc. The parishes help people deal with the crises in their lives.
